Welcome to our documentation wiki

Why a wiki?

Software products and for more and more products also firmware develops at a super fast pace. This wiki allows us to keep the documentation up to date with a lot less effort. Everybody, even Victron customers and end-users of the product can make changes.

There will also be a commenting section below each page. Use it to ask additional questions.

Automatic email on updates

It is possible to get an email notification when documentation is updated.

- First register as a user and log in
- Go to the Documentation page of the wiki, and then click the subscribe button at the right.
- Choose the asterisk (*)
- Choose for a daily update

Editing pages

After subscribing, you will be able to edit existing pages. There are two editors, a graphical one (CKG Edit) and one that let's you edit the raw text (DW Edit). Use the button below the edit box to switch between them. Both have their advantages.

Adding images

Images can be added through the media manager, and even easier is to copy and simply paste the image in the editor. Note that this doesn't work in all browser settings. For some computers it works only in Internet Explorer, and others do it in Chrome and Firefox as well.

Tip: use the Snipping tool in Windows to make screenshots.
