

PRESS RELEASE

Intellitec & Victron partner to focus on the UK specialist automotive sector.

Intellitec and Victron have announced that they have formed a working partnership and will be focusing on the UK special vehicle market.

Duncan Hughes of Intellitec states “we are delighted to release details of this very strong partnership with Victron Energy, the synergies between our companies are extremely interesting with regards to both existing products and indeed for what is in the development pipeline.”

Hughes goes on to say, “with the addition of the Victron products to our range and indeed our application engineering and system development skills, we are very excited about the future relationship with Victron Energy.”

Intellitec will be providing a complete and tailored solution to the UK special vehicle market, that will include design of power systems including supply of batteries, on vehicle AC provision, power management systems, programmable control systems all supported with first class engineering backup.
